

“Endorsed

Adrian Woolley
President
Peel Regional
Police Association

“Mayor Patrick Brown has been the strongest municipal voice in Canada for front-line policing. From extortion and auto theft to bail reform, he has worked with other levels of government to find real solutions. He also helped Peel Police catch up after years of historic underfunding and fixed the 911 backlogs that were putting residents at risk. Patrick Brown doesn’t just talk, he delivers.”

Peel Regional Police is a non-partisan public service and does not endorse any candidate. The endorsement on this page is from the Peel Regional Police Association, which represents Peel’s officers and civilian members.

Insiders rank Patrick Brown as top Ontario mayor for public safety impact

Policing leaders say Mayor Patrick Brown’s experience in federal politics has helped him turn local public safety concerns into calls for action from Ottawa and Queen’s Park.

The Next 4 Years

- 1 700 more uniformed officers
Peel has long had fewer officers per resident than the national average. Fewer officers means longer waits for help and fewer investigators on every case. Building on the record 706 new officers hired since 2022, Mayor Brown will support 700 more over the next four years to close that gap.
- 2 Pass lawful access legislation
Extortion networks use phones and apps to threaten Brampton families and businesses. Today it can take up to 30 days for police to get basic digital information. In other Five Eyes countries, it takes hours. Investigations go cold. Bill C-22 would speed that up, with legal safeguards. It passed the House in June and is now before the Senate. Mayor Brown will keep pressing senators to pass it.
- 3 Drones to fight organized crime
Peel Police already flies drones for search and rescue, collision scenes and tactical calls, and is planning one of Canada’s first Drone as First Responder programs. Mayor Brown will back expanding the program to track suspects, find missing people and reach crimes in progress faster, with no facial recognition or intrusion on the privacy of law-abiding residents.
- 4 More crowns and jail capacity
Police make the arrest. Courts must finish the job. In Ontario, too many criminal cases end with charges withdrawn, stayed or dismissed. Mayor Brown will push Queen’s Park for more crown prosecutors and court interpreters in Peel, faster digital disclosure and more correctional space so dangerous offenders stay behind bars.
- 5 End criminal tourism
Peel Region is home to Canada’s busiest international airport, making us a primary target for sophisticated transnational criminal networks. While Peel Police remains committed to community safety, local municipal resources alone cannot sustainably fight global crime rings. Mayor Brown will advocate directly to Ottawa for funding to secure our borders and airport from international threats.
- 6 Compassionate intervention
People in severe addiction or mental health crisis often can’t ask for help, so police are left to respond. Since 2022, Peel Police made 24,000+ apprehensions and spent 30,000+ hours waiting in hospitals. Mayor Brown asked the Province for a compassionate intervention pilot, and Premier Ford is now open to it. Mayor Brown will work with him to get it done.

Election Day

Building for Public Safety

More officers, new police stations and facilities, and a national fight against crimes that hit our families hardest. Here's what Mayor Brown has delivered.

Opening Nov 2026

Under Construction

Under Construction

23 Division Brampton's 3rd Division

Northwest Brampton is one of the fastest growing areas in Canada, and its police coverage must keep up. 23 Division brings patrol officers, detectives and community response teams closer to the families who live there. It will be home to more officers than any station in Peel.

Operational Support Facility

As Peel grows by 350,000 residents over the next decade, the systems behind every emergency call must keep up. This new facility on Mississauga Rd in Brampton brings 24/7 operations, the 9-1-1 Communications Centre, Community Safety Operations Centre, Information Technology Services, analytics and records under one roof.

Sir Robert Peel Centre 22 Division Redevelopment

Modern crime runs on digital evidence, and police need modern facilities to keep up. The rebuilt Sir Robert Peel Centre brings forensics, detainee processing, and digital evidence together in one place. Phase two adds a new, larger 22 Division for central Brampton on the same site.

Mayor Brown took Brampton's auto theft fight national.

Auto Theft

Federal

At the peak in 2023, 8,322 vehicles were stolen in Peel, many right out of Brampton driveways. Organized crime rings shipped them overseas in containers, while only 1% of containers leaving Canada were being inspected. Families were left with higher insurance and a sense that no one was in charge. Mayor Brown refused to accept that and went after the whole pipeline.

What Ottawa Delivered

$28M for CBSA

Funding for the Canadian Border Services Agency to find stolen cars in shipping containers.

Tougher Laws

Up to 14 years for auto theft tied to violence or organized crime

An X-ray Scanner

An X-ray scanner for GTA rail yards and ports

Port of Newark tour with US Homeland Security and Peel Police on container scanning.

Mayor Brown pushed for it, and the GTA received its first X-ray container scanner to catch stolen cars before they're shipped overseas.

Mayor Brown's Advocacy

- Feb 2023 Called on Ottawa to fund more border officers at our ports
- Jun 2023 Free signal blocking pouches (thefts fell in pilot areas)
- Feb 2024 Brought Peel Police solutions to the National Summit on Combatting Auto Theft
- May 2024 More than 8,300 households joined our auto theft town hall
- Jun 2024 Toured the Port of Newark with US Homeland Security and Peel Police

2023 to 2025

When seconds count

In 2022, callers waited up to 2 minutes for 9-1-1. Mayor Brown pushed for more 9-1-1 first responders and Next Generation 9-1-1. Today calls are answered in 7 seconds on average, 17x faster, and Peel is beating the national standard for the first time in over a decade.

706 new uniformed officers

In 2022, Mayor Brown promised more officers by the end of 2026 and has delivered 706 so far, including the largest single year police hiring increase. That means more officers in our neighbourhoods and fully staffed units targeting extortion, intimate partner violence, trafficking, gun violence and unsafe driving.

Tougher bail laws

Mayor Brown led Brampton's Bail Reform Now campaign and took our case to Ottawa. Bill C-14 took effect July 15, 2026: bail is harder to get for repeat and violent offenders.

Standing with survivors

Family and intimate partner violence is the largest single category of police calls in Peel (44 a day). Brampton declared it an epidemic in 2023. Peel Police now has a dedicated unit with 81 officers and growing. Ontario is also investing $4.1M to expand the Safe Centre of Peel.

360° cameras at 50 intersections

Linked to the Community Safety Operations Centre, they helped police in 200+ investigations in their first year. Safety cameras, not ticket cameras.
